

FIND SUPPLY POINT TO ISOLATE CCT

Isolating equipment before working is safety critical. Often the documentation available does not contain sufficient information and isolations are performed:

- By trial and error
- At a higher level in the system than strictly necessary which can disrupt normal business as many circuits lose power.

Lighting is often poorly documented. With DAD you can fully document small power circuits: here is an example of finding the point of supply for a light fitting:

